

Costanera Center

Costanera Center is a mega project that will result in the tallest building in South America measuring 300 meters in height. Located in the Central Business District of Santiago, Chile the Costanera center will house over 300 stores, a Jumbo hypermarket, Easy home improvement store, food court, movie theaters, bowling alley, medical center, gym and parking for 4,500 vehicles. Completion of the entire project is scheduled in 2012.

location

Santiago, Chile

year

2012 application

HVAC

productline

VSH Shurjoint

architect

Building

Costanera Center

COSTCO is a membership warehouse club, dedicated to bringing their members the best possible prices on quality brand-name merchandise. They have three shopping malls in Taipei. One of them is located in Neihu near the Asia/Pacific Head Office of Shurjoint Group. COSTCO Taipei has an American engineered fire-protection system which utilized Shurjoint #7705 couplings, #7721 mechanical tees, and many grooved-end fittings. All products were approved by the consultant as the grooved joining method does not require welding, and fewer workers are required for a shorter duration.

location

Santiago, Chile

year

2012

application

HVAC

productline

VSH Shurjoint

architect

Building

